Statements Printed in Certain Salt Lake Papers Based Upon Hearsay.

DEFENDANT IN GAMBLING CASE A PHILANTHROPIST

Kept the Rooms Which Were Raided as Place for Broken-Down Boosters.

Before Judge Diehl Friday afternoon, in the case against M. H. Wilson, the prose-cution brought out the fact that the statements printed in certain newspapers in Salt Lake, bearing on the case, were based entirely upon hearsay and not upon positive knowledge of the papers. The evidence disclosed that Wilson, the defendant, was keeping a philanthropic home where broken-down and decrepit boosters might have a place to "hang out."

Reporter on the Stand.

Benjamin Roberts of the Herald repor-torial staff took the stand and testified that he had not been in the rooms re-ferred to between the 24th and 36th days of January, 1995. He had, he said, knocked at the door for admission while disguised with a white slouch hat and a big pipe, but that he did not see anything that con-vinced him that gambling was carried on. The door was closed against him.

Heard Chips Rattle.

"I heard the rattle of chips," said Roberts, "but I couldn't see in and consequently I am not prepared to state that gambling was being carried on."

While sufficient evidence had already been introduced to make out a case against the defendant, it was to be regretted that Mr. Roberts had no definite knowledge of gambling in the place mentioned, as his statements, which he said he made in the Herald, Indicated.

J. P. Gunn's Testimony.

J. P. Gunn's Testimony.

J. P. Gunn, who until a year ago was a professional bicycle rider, having taken part in numerous events at the local track, said he had been employed at the Green Light gambling house for some time, and that he applied to Mr. Wilson for a position several days ago. Mr. Wilson, at that time, had no place for him, but said he was in hopes things would open up within a short time so that open gambling would be permitted, at which time he would give him a job. In the meantime, Wilson was quoted as saying Mr. Gunn and his friends would be welcome to hang out in the old Wassatch club rooms, and play any game they chose to. Mr. Gunn was positive that Mr. Wilson had told him that all forms of gambling were to be prohibited in the rooms for the present. Among other things brought out on cross-examination was the fact that any one entering the rooms had to pass through three doors and be let in by a watchman, or doorkeeper.

Did Not Recognize Officer.

Mr. Gunn testified that when Officer Rhodes entered the rooms on the night of the arrest, he did not recognize him, and later, when informed that officers were on the outside awaiting admittance, warned Rhodes not to open the door other witnesses testified that curtains almost as heavy as pieces of carpet had been nailed over the windows, thus excluding all light and making it impossible for those on the outside to look in.

Wilson on the Stand

Wilson on the Stand.

Wilson on the Stand.

When Mr. Wilson took the stand it was expected that considerable evidence would be brought out, either on direct or cross-examination, but in this the attorneys were disappointed. Mr. Wilson claimed that he kept a doorkeeper hired so as to prevent vagrants and drunks from entering the place. He said his only reason for conducting the place was to furnish a card-room and loading place for the gamblers and their friends who were temporarily out of employment, and also to hold the room in case gambling opened up again, so that he could lease it at a good figure. The rooms referred to were rented, he said, in connection with the Montana rooming-house, of which he is the proprietor.

Defense Rests.

Defense Rests.

With the conclusion of Mr. Wilson's festimony the defense reated, and after recalling two witnesses for the purpose of rebutting some of the evidence brought out in the direct examination, the city also declared that after making an argument it would be willing to leave the case in the hands of the court. As the hour was too late to finish the arguments, it was decided to let the matter stand until this morning at 10 o clock, when the attorney in the case will be heard.

It Will Be in Nature of Commission as United States Marshal.

When William Spry secures his $20,000 bend, if the same is approved at Wash-ngton and Judge Marshall hands him his commission by February 14, Mr. Spry will assume the duties of United States Marshal on that morning. This has been agreed upon by the incumbent of the of ce, Marshal B. B. Heywood, and Mr.

Date of Heywood's Commission.

Mr. Heywood's commission as United States Marshal was dated January 27, but he did not take charge of the office until March I. If Mr. Spry goes into office on Pebruary 14, Marshal Heywood will have served four years, less just fourteen days. The delay in his having assumed the duties of his office was due to the absence of Judge Marshall, to whom was forwarded the commission to be handed to Mr. Heywood.

Closing Up the Records.

Chlest Deputy Smyth and Deputy Page are busily engaged in closing up the records of the office, so that everything will be in single in case the change is made on the date mentioned. When the new Marshal steps into his office it will be like opening up a new office altogother, as everything pertaining to the administration of Marshal Heywood, even to the unused funds to the credit of the Marshal's office, must be returned to Washington.

John Cort of Seattle Says Western Theaters Doing Big Business.

John Cort and wife of Seattle are registered at the Kenyon hotel. In addition to controlling several theaters in Seattle and being the manager of Florence Roberts, the actress Mr. Cort is the general manager of the Northwestern Theatrical Circuit, the Western division of the "Burlesque Wheel."

Witnessed New Play.

Witnessed New Play.

Mr Cort is returning home from Denver, where he witnessed last Sunday night the presentation of his new production, "The Strength of the Weak," with Florence Roberts as the star. The play was written by Alice M. Smith of Tacoma, Wash. It is problematical in thome, and is presented in four acts by a cast of mineteen people. Mr Cort deciares that the new play has made a great hit and that its success is assured. After the initial performance it was necessary, Mr. Cort says, to place the musiclans on the stage and utilize the space previously occupied by them in the orchestra pit to accommodate the great crowds.

Will Play in 'Frisco.

From Denver the play will go to Los Angeles, and then to San Francisco for a two weeks' engagement. From San Francisco Mr. Cort will take Miss Roberts across the continent to New York, where she will make her first Broadway appearance. In view of Miss Roberts's popularity in Sait Lake, Mr. Cort is making efforts to secure several dates for her at the Sait Lake Theatre on the trip to New York.

Contracts With Calve.

Mr. Cort announces that he has renewed his contract with Calve, the French singer, for next season, and that he will present Maude Feelly, the Denver girl who has won great fame in the dramatic world, in the West next season. She will be the star of a new play, "Princess Nobody," by Martha Morton, Miss Fealy is now leading lady with Willie Collier, in "On the Quiet."

Theatrical Eusiness Good.

Theatrical Business Good.

The theatrical business in the Western country, according to Mr. Cort, has been better this year than for five seasons, especially on the coast. The exact reverse of conditions, he declares, prevails in the Eastern and Southern States. Mr. Cort is especially pleased with the success this season of the Lyric theater of Sait Lake, one of the houses of the Northwestern Theatrical Circuit, and says that its business has exceeded that of the Empire theater of Denver, a playhouse running the same shows that are seen at the Lyric heete.

SHOWN UP IN THEIR TRUE LIGHT

Adulterated Foods the Topic Discussed; Illustrated by Analyses of Products.

CATSUPS AND JAMS THAT ARE NOT PURE

Interesting Address Before the Ladies' Literary Club by Mrs. Charles Brooks.

Practical and interesting in the extreme as the paper given by Mrs. Charles Brooks yesterday afternoon before the members of the current events and current literature section of the Ladies' Literary club. "Adulterated Foods" was the topic discussed by Mrs. Brooks, and her paper, as well as the analyses in which she proved the statements made there, were followed with more than the usual interest by the club members pres-Foods Analyzed.

With the assistance of State Chemist Harms, Mrs Brooks has made a number Harms, Mrs Brooks has made a number of analyses of foods of various kinds, and these were annivzed again yesterday afternoon for the beneft of her audience. So-called lemon and vanilla extracts catsups, teas, coffees, butter, jams, canned goods and other products were shown up in their true light, and not a few of those present learned for the first time that they had been using jams that were not jams, catsup that was not catsup and vanilla and lemon extracts that had not a drop of the pure product in their make-up.

How Tests Were Made.

How Tests Were Made.

Into the heated adulterated catsups and jams Mrs. Brooks dropped tiny pieces of white wool. In less time than it takes to tell the wool was turned to a brilliant crimson by the dyes contained in the concection called "catsup" or "jam". Then to prove her case, Mrs. Brooks dropped the same kind of wool into home-made joms and catsup which scarcely tinged the white.

Tasted the Saccharine

Oleomargarine, saccharine and glucose came in for their share of explanation at the hands of Mrs. Brooks. Some of the braver visitors at the club went forward and tasted the "saccharine," but it is understood they were later regretting their bravery.

French Peas Bear Stamp.

Mrs. Brooks called attention to the fact that the laws of some States require that in case adulterants are used the manu-facturer must make it known by printing it on the label, or stamping it in the can. So-called French peas often bear this stamp, if the housewife will but notice cicsely and refuse the brand.

Laws Are Severe.

The laws of Utah regarding the sale of adulterated foods were highly praised by Mrs. Brooks. She says they are so severe that it is now difficult to obtain anything that is adulterated or impure. This, she said, is also true of the milk, and whereas a few years ago it was quite common to find adulterated fluid that was called pure milk, the real article is now obtainable everywhere.

Charming Talk.

The paper read by Mrs. Brooks followed a very charming talk by Mrs. William R. Hutchinson on the life of the late President William R. Harper Mrs. Hutchinson knew President Harper and the members of his family intimately, and the account of his work and of the home life of his family was altogether interesting. interesting

IN WHOM DO YOU PIN YOUR FAITH?

If in Dr. Hyatt, Buy Coal; if in the Groundhog, Begin Planting.

Unless the sun shines today the record for foggy weather, made four years ago, will be reached. In spite of the fact that by no possible means could the ground-tog have seen his shadow yesterday, the weather director is confident that the ecord for foggy weather in this region will be not only reached this time but passed. Turn and twist and manipulate the weather instruments as he will, he can't discover a single feature that gives him courage to predict anything but "the same conditions."

When Sun Showed Face.

On January 25 the sun was last visible over the Salt Lake valley. Those who have long depended on the groundhog took on a hopeful air yesterday when the same gloomy veil that has hung over the city since that time not only made its appearance in the morning but stayed all day. Groundhog Is Infallible.

But Dr. Hyatt says it's no use He knows just how much show and rain and cold weather are good for the people of this vicinity and he proposes to work for the people's good. He asserts that he intends to prove for once that the grounding is almost as fullible as the weather bureau, and there is no telling when he may begin to bring the first proof. Take Your Choice. Those who have faith in the ground-hog get out your plows and begin your spring planting. Those who have faith in Dr. Hyatt and his scientific predictions prepare to invest in coal, sharpen up your skates, patch up rents in the old um-brelias and help the rubber trust out by buying at least one more pair of over-shoes.

Big Extension Planned.

While the construction of the HoustonSalisbury building, which represents an outlay of $70,000, is now well advanced and it will be ready for occupancy early in the spring, the owners have received such a flood of applications for space in these quarters that plans are now being made to extend the structure, which will mena an additional outlay of $160,000. It is also stated that the Woodmen of the World have practically decided upon this thoroughfare for the location of their new home, for which a structure that will be a credit to the city is planned.

New System of Lighting. New System of Lighting. For the purpose of improvement in the appearance of the street a movement is now under way to take out the poles upon which the regulation electric lights are now strung and in their place substitute low, ornamental poles at intervals of 120 feet, each to be surmounted by four glass-globed incandescents of high power.

Clergy Do Their

Two years ago property was freely offered in this street at $150 per foot, and now there is practically none to be had at double that price. The Realty company recently sold fifty feet frontage just west of the Odd Fellows' building at $250 per foot and on Saturday closed a deal for the transfer of fifty feet next cast of the same structure for $300 per foot. The first named was purchased by E. H. Rife, a Wyoming sheepman, who plans to erect a modern three-story brick this season.

Other Sales Noted.

Through Kelsey & Gillispie, John A. Knight has purchased from S. B. Milner for £000 a lot on Social avenue, for the building of a new wagon shop. The Ranck Real Estate company during the day closed the sale of four lots on Ninth East street near Ninth South, all of which went to prospective builders, and one firm reports the sale of more than 100 building lots in the city during the past five weeks.

With such demonstrations of business as these during the dullest senson of the year, it is not hard to understand why every dealer is optimistic concerning the activity for the coming spring.

RELICS PIONEER DAYS

Daughters of Pioneers Anxious to Get

Old-Time Musical Instruments. Old-Time Musical Instruments.

The special committee appointed by the Daughters of the Utah Ploneers to collect relica and other souvenirs of pioneer days are especially anxious to secure some old-time musical instruments, and any who have such will confer a favor upon the committee by tendering them for the permanent exhibit in the hall of relics.

Just now the daughters are busily engaged in arranging a programme for the annual encampment, to be held in this city the latter part of February.
